Environmental Political Theory

Thursday, March 21, 9:00 am to 5:00 pm (Room to be announced)

This day-long workshop will focus upon ideas in the growing field of environmental, or 'green', political theory. A morning session will focus upon pedagogical issues, including syllabi and approaches to teaching. The afternoon will be devoted to emergent research agendas and questions of audience and application. Along the way, we hope to strengthen lines of communication and a sense of community among those with active interests in this area. Graduate students are encouraged to attend. At this year's morning session we will discuss a timely book co-edited by Rita Mae Kelly, Jane Bayes, Mary Hawkesworth, and Brigitte Young, Gender, Globalization, and Democratization (Rowman and Littlefield, 2001). In the afternoon we will discuss papers theorizing the welfare state: Michele Berger, "The Intersection of Gender, Race and Class: 20 Years of Impact in the Social Sciences"; Anna Marie Smith, "The Sexual Regulation Dimension of Contemporary Welfare Law"; and Karen Zivi, "Contesting Rights, Contesting Identity: Narrative of Motherhood and the Politics of HIV Testing." Latino Politics

Thursday, March 21, 1:45 pm to 9:00 pm (Room to be announced)

This year's workshop features three sessions. The first is entitled "Crossing Borders and Other Troublesome Facts," and will be an extensive examination of transnational identity, economics, and the politics of Mexican-Americans. The second session is "Book Publishing in Political Science" and will be a roundtable discussion of strategies, contacts, presentation style, topics, and expectations involved in securing a university press contract for book-length research. Presenters will include several book authors who have successfully navigated these waters. The evening session is a "meet-the-author" discussion of Rodolfo Rosales' "The Illusion of Inclusion" published by the University of Texas Press. The workshop is intended as an informal environment for the discussion of issues of importance to Latino politics scholarship and Latinos in the discipline. The event is free, and all interested faculty and graduate students are invited to attend. For additional information, contact
